

Avoid These 5 Mistakes Most Web Design Clients Make

Introduction

If you've ever Googled "web designer near me" in Davenport, you've seen endless options-cheap offers, glossy ads, and one-size-fits-all promises.

But according to real small business owners on Reddit, many projects end in frustration, delays, or wasted budget.

"I paid $400 for my website. It looked fine... but no one found it. Had to pay another $3k to fix it." - Actual Redditor

This guide distills real pain points, misunderstandings, and lessons learned from hundreds of user experiences, so you can make confident choices from the start.

Top 5 Pain Points from Real Users

1. The $400 Website Trap - Dirt-cheap builds lack SEO and performance optimization.

Ask: "What's included for SEO and mobile readiness?"

2. Template Shock - Stock templates disguised as custom work.

Ask: "Can I see your original, from-scratch portfolio pieces?"

3. Ghosting After Launch - No maintenance or follow-up plan.

Ask: "What's your process for post-launch support?"

4. Pretty But Useless - Great-looking sites that don't convert.

Ask: "How will my site convert visitors into customers?"

5. Platform Confusion - Unclear on tools, platforms, or handoff.

Ask: "Will I be able to edit my own site after launch?"
